The Orbit We Share When Maeve walks away from her seemingly perfect, stable life in Vancouver , she escapes to her family's remote, cedar-shingled cabin in British Columbia's breathtaking Comox Valley. Instead of finding solitary refuge to process her broken engagement , she runs directly into Julian —the brilliant astrophysicist and childhood first love she hasn't seen since a devastating misunderstanding drove them onto separate trajectories a decade ago . Trapped together by a relentless Pacific Northwest storm , the forced proximity begins to fracture their carefully constructed defenses. Woven through with elegant physics metaphors that translate quantum mechanics into profound love letters , this emotionally intelligent, dual-POV second-chance romance explores the literal and emotional gravity of human connection . It is a slow-burn narrative about the maturity it takes to heal past heartbreaks , choose vulnerability over fear , and surrender to the inescapable pull of a love meant to be traveled twice. The novel's heartbeat belongs to its stunning setting: the Comox Valley. Rendered with such vivid, atmospheric specificity that it becomes a character in its own right , the landscape serves as a breathtaking, watercolor canvas where the natural world feels beautifully vast and intimate. From the rugged coastlines and the soft, diffused light filtering through Pacific clouds to the towering peaks of the Comox Glacier rising in the distance , it is an unforgettable place of contrasts. The air carries a wild, sensory mixture of cedar, rain, and cold salt. Whether experiencing the cozy warmth of a crackling fire during a fierce coastal storm or walking along the timeless, driftwood-strewn beaches of Goose Spit , the Comox Valley acts as a magical catalyst that demands total emotional presence, forcing Maeve and Julian to strip away years of protective armor and finally find their way home. support@strategiccryptoreserve.ca

Remember to visit SCR for more info!
Visit us at Telegram !
Visit us at Discord !

https://strategiccryptoreserve.ca/

9 781291 653892

